

Manh Hung Do

Country: Vietnam

Course: Diploma of Management

Institute: TAFE NSW – Western Sydney Institute, Blacktown College

Manh Hung Do did his own research and he learnt that TAFE NSW is a reputable provider and it was a pathway to prepare for further study at Australian universities. He soon decided that TAFE NSW would be his best choice to commence study in Australia. Manh, with an Advanced Diploma of Electrical Engineering from Vietnam, chose to further expand his qualifications by pursuing a Diploma of Management at TAFE NSW – Western Sydney Institute, Blacktown College.

TAFE NSW is the largest education and training provider in Australia and offers over 1,200 practical, work-oriented training courses in over 130 campus locations in Sydney and New South Wales. TAFE NSW – Western Sydney Institute has seven campus locations in Sydney and international students from more than 30 countries study here.

Blacktown, where Manh studies a few days a week, offers a great combination of city features that include cinemas, restaurants, shopping complexes, and cafes. The College is close to the railway station which makes access very easy.

Manh is very happy with his teachers and the facilities available to him on campus. “My teachers are great! They’re patient, friendly, and they always make sure to carefully explain all the material we go over in class. They also help me with my assignments before I submit them so I can get extra help instead of just getting back a bad mark,” he said. “The library is also a really helpful resource for me. It supports not only my studying, but also my hobbies since I can take movies out to watch on my own time.”

Manh’s favourite part about studying at TAFE NSW is the opportunity to meet people from many different cultures. “I have friends from China, Korea, Turkey, Australia and Europe,” he said. “Being able to meet people from all over the world is incredibly rewarding and a truly priceless experience for me.” Manh recommends TAFE NSW to anyone interested in studying overseas.

“TAFE NSW offers a lot of practical hands-on experience in the classroom,” he said. “This is very different from university where you have to gain career experience on your own time.”

After completing his course at Blacktown College, Manh plans on continuing his study at the University of Western Sydney (UWS) where he will work towards a Bachelor Degree in Engineering.